Sister M. Agatha Ono, SSND

Sister M. Agatha was born in Kobe, Japan, in 1935. Sister M. Agatha entered the School Sisters of Notre Dame in 1966 in Shishigatani, Japan, five years after her baptism. She professed her final vows in 1974. She has devoted herself in various ministries in the Diocese of Kyoto, serving in numerous administrative and instructional roles. Her posts include teaching at Notre Dame Elementary School and serving her community at the Iwakura Convent. She has assisted on staff at Kyoto Light House, serving people with visual disabilities. Sister M. Agatha has also served as treasurer at Karasaki House of Prayer.

A memory I want to share...

What impressed me and stays in my memory are the words of Sister Eugenia Laker, one of the first missionaries to Japan after the World War II. She said, “First patience, second patience and third patience.”
