Women's Leadership Luncheon

Diversity. It's a word we hear so often in our workplaces, in school and in our day-to-day interactions. When we hear the word "diversity," many of us immediately think of race. But diversity means so much more than that. It can refer to gender, socioeconomics, education, religion, age or culture. Diversity can even be spoken about in terms of differences in thoughts, words and deeds. Differences in how we look, act and think create many challenges, but also many opportunities to come together and celebrate our uniqueness.

Since 1833, the School Sisters of Notre Dame (SSND) have been committed to helping children and adults from all walks of life to reach their fullest potential. They have used different ministries to achieve this goal and have received women into the Congregation from across North America and around the world. Embracing diversity in community and through their various ministries, sisters work together to proclaim the good news as SSND, directing their entire lives toward that oneness for which Jesus Christ was sent.

In 2020, the Luncheons will look at diversity and the many ways it manifests itself in all areas of our lives. You are cordially invited to be a sponsor for the luncheon at the Midpointe Event Center. Your sponsorship will help those who attend understand diversity and learn ways to use differences to create unity. In sponsoring this event, you will have the opportunity to network and recognize women and their contributions at home and in the workplace. The following pages outline the sponsorship levels and benefits associated with each level.

We look forward to your sponsorship of SSND's Women's Leadership Luncheon at Midpointe Event Center. Thank you for supporting women leaders in our community.

Dr. Antonia Apolinario-Wilcoxon

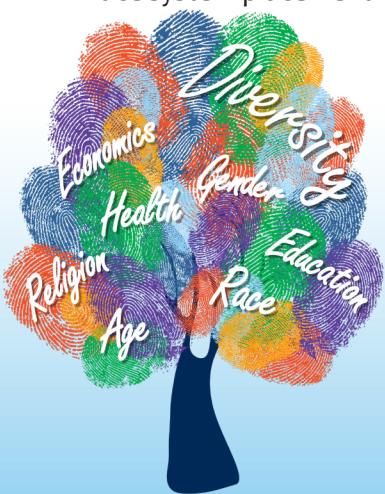

St. Paul/Ramsey County Public Health Department

“Embracing Diversity: The Struggle for Social Justice”

Dr. Antonia Apolinario-Wilcoxon is a consistent and powerful voice for health equity and serves on the University of Minnesota School of Public Health public health administration and policy community advisory board. She advises both the full-time and executive programs on matters related to public health priorities, trends in practice and curriculum needs. Antonia also chairs the Center for Resilient Families - a federal grant to the University of Minnesota Institute for Translational Research in Children’s Mental Health.

Dr. Apolinario-Wilcoxon served as the Minnesota Department of Human Services’ (DHS) director of community relations from June 2012 to October 2018. In this role she managed, developed and facilitated engagement between DHS and the communities experiencing inequities in access to human services while building community relations. She staffed the creation of the legislatively mandated Cultural and Ethnic Communities Leadership Council (CE-CLC), which advises the Minnesota commissioner on reducing disparities that affect racial and ethnic groups within DHS programs.

Currently on leave from DHS on a mobility project at Ramsey County Public Health, Antonia leads community engagement activities with the City of St. Paul and the St. Paul Public Schools on youth and juvenile justice system issues. She helps bring alternative options to juvenile justice system placement. Antonia enjoys serving as a catalyst for change. She was the recipient of the Social Justice Citizen Award from the International Leadership Institute and the Dr. Cida Barreto Award from the World Conference on Remedies to Racial Ethnic Economic Inequities in 2018.
